Volta Revival Foundation Student Sponsorship program

Trafficked 2 School

Freedom for child survivors of fishing and domestic slavery in Ghana, Africa

What is the Trafficked 2 School Student Sponsorship Program?

Through our student sponsorship program, the Volta Revival Foundation partners with donors and sponsors to provide life-changing opportunities to child survivors of fishing and domestic slavery in and around Ada, Ghana, West Africa. Sponsored students are enrolled in the highest performing school in the district with not only excellent academic instruction, but also music lessons, extra tutorials, art courses, and one-on-one mentorship. Additionally, we provide health care, hygiene kits, two meals a day, food help, clothing and shoes, family support, all books and school supplies, transportation for students living far from the school, living stipends when necessary and much more. We believe that due to the traumatic life experience of being enslaved our children need therapy and the ability to express themselves freely in order to heal. Our team is qualified to help our students with their trauma as we have a psychologist, and child development specialist, as well as multiple mothers on staff to provide them with the support they need. The program is coupled with our community and school monitoring program to keep data on child disappearances in the district, and our intervention program to bring and keep children out of the fishing industry.

Being a Sponsor

As a Trafficked 2 School sponsor you will have the privilege of seeing how your small contribution and relationship with your student can flourish into a life long and life changing journey for both your family and your student! Throughout this journey VRF promises to send you quarterly student welfare reports which include your students grades, family and health status, a recent picture, and a handwritten letter from your student. You always have the opportunity to engage your student more through letters, video calls, and personalized gifts!

Additionally, as an organization with a fully staffed volunteer house in Ada, Ghana you are welcome to come and meet your student in person! Our students love hearing from their sponsors, and the cultural exchange is rich and beautiful!

Volta Revival Foundation is currently equipped with a staff of seven professionals, and we provide all of the above services to our students and sponsors based on the generous donations of our supporters and most importantly from the sponsors contributions. For a $45 monthly contribution we provide everything to your student, in addition to all our love and continued support for the student throughout their life. We expect our students to go on into university, training schools and other programs and to come back as the next generation ready to change their communities for the better, and to end they cycle of poverty and slavery!

Long Term Goals One Child at a Time: Breaking the Cycle of Child Trafficking in the Fishing Industry

As a grass-roots community support organization, Volta Revival Foundation is highly concerned with the long-term sustainability of our projects. That's why we have created our student sponsorship program because we believe that if you want to change a horrible cycle then you provide education and opportunity to the children.

Child slavery trafficking is very common in our area where the income is low and the people are traditional fishermen and traders. Many parents from very rural fishing villages in Ada are targeted by fishermen with boats who work north on the Volta lake mostly in and around communities in Akosombo and Yeji. The fishermen may be relatives, friends or acquaintances of the parents, and they promise many things to the, often impoverished, parents such as education for their child, good food and accommodation, as well as payments made to the parents for the work of the child. The parents often believe the opportunities being offered by the fishermen are much better than what they can offer their own child, and therefore they lease the child out as a laborer who is not allowed to leave until their contract (usually 5-15 years) is served. This is how a child becomes the slave of a fisherman. Once the child is in the fisherman's custody, the child will not be sent to school, instead they will be made to work 15-18 hours a day, be punished and abused often and for minor mistakes, be fed little, sleep in dirty quarters with many other children in the same position, and be forced to engage in dangerous work such as diving deep into lake Volta to untangle nets, and set traps. Other tasks the child will be engaged in is net mending, fish scaling, boat maintenance, carrying heavy loads of fish and other items, wielding dangerous equipment, working all hours of the day and night, being used as fishing bait, and rowing the boat.

Additionally, young girls are brought into this industry as domestic and sexual servants for the boy slaves and the fishermen. The girls will engage in fish selling, cleaning, cooking, net mending, and many other chores. The girls are also often raped, and used as child brides to the fishermen, or as sexual motivation for the boys in slavery so that they will not run away. Therefore, both boys and girls as young as 2 years old are implicated in this form of child trafficking.

Our Story

The Volta Revival Foundation was created by love.

Love of the people. Love of mama Africa. Love of justice and kindness.

And love for each other.

Volta Revival Foundation was manifested by the imaginations of two dreamers: Monique Vandenbroucke and Merstack Akhie who met in Ada Foah Ghana in the summer of 2016 and together established VRF that December.

Since that fateful day VRF has grown exponentially and many have come along side, caught up in our philosophy and vision including our projects manager Julius, our volunteer coordinator Era, our secretary Isaac, our chef Philipa, and our volunteer house manager Aggie, along with hundreds of Ghanaian volunteers and many international volunteers.

In the three years we have been operational VRF has touched the lives of thousands, and directly impacted over 3,000 people with direct, and in some cases life-saving aid. Some of our accomplishments include: sponsoring the education of 19 children including 13 child survivors of slavery, donated 50 bicycles to students living very far from their schools, campaigned and successfully kept two multinational corporations from displacing an island community without just resettlement, provided pure water to one island school and wind powered electricity to another, provided sanitation, health care, and electronics to a children's home to ensure proper management; aided another local NGO in the establishment of one of the highest performing schools in the district, provided a resettlement clinic with equipment and needed medicines, ran over 15 youth sports camps, supported the Ada arts community with an arts revival competition, and we are currently creating monitoring and intervention programs to work towards ending the trafficking of children in Ada into fishing slavery on the Volta lake and river, as well as seeking funding for a tree planting project in the district to decrease erosion and the worst forms of climate change on our Ramsar protected coastal area. The Volta Revival Foundation is now stronger than ever, and getting better every day, and we want you to be a part of it, because if there's anything we know, its that together we make a difference!

Volta Revival Foundation is established both in USA and in Ghana. The Volta Revival Foundation is headed by a board of directors based in Bend Oregon, and is regularly audited in order to ensure transparency and financial honesty.

About Ada, Ghana

Ada Ghana is situated between the Volta river and the Gulf of Guinea, near the Volta river estuary where the ocean and river meet. The Ada East and West districts are the most rural districts in the Greater Accra Region; Ada Foah is the district capital. The districts have not yet caught up with the rapid urbanization of surrounding areas though it has a good transport system and is about 2 hours away from the Accra airport. Coconut trees can be found along the coast as well as many species including hundreds of types of birds. The entire district is a Ramsar site and Biosphere reserve. The population of Ada is approximately 140,000 living in hundreds of communities. The main economic activities include salt mining, oyster mining, fishing, farming, livestock rearing and trading. There is widespread poverty in the district: sanitation, and access to clean food and water are major factors, as well as low quality education. Regardless of these facts, the resilience of Adano (Ada people) is evident, and despite every challenge being placed in their way, many are creating a comfortable life for themselves, or are able to hold on and survive from day to day.

The estuary of the Volta river is comprised of seven main islands with Twenty-Two communities living on the islands. The indigenes of the land are called Adas from various clans and There is a paramount Chief who is the overlord of the Ada State. The people of Ada speak the Ada dialect (Ada- Dangbe) of the Ga-Adangbe languages. The people of Ada are heterogeneous in terms of religion, and there are Christians, Moslems and Traditionalists. The major festival of the people of Ada is Asafotufiami which is celebrated in August every year and attracts tens of thousands of people from all over the world to witness it.

Testimonials from Survivors and Students in need of sponsorship

NAME: Felix Agbesi | AGE: 14 | GRADE: 5th

Felix was born in Ada and later moved with his parents to Akosombo, a fishing community notoriously known for harboring children for fishing in the Volta lake. Felix was introduced to fishing in the Akosombo lake at the age of 5. Felix said he was used as child labor with many other children from different parents. The master of the fishing business is Felix's father who has recruited other children to join the business. Felix narrated that fishing in the Akosombo lake is a very dangerous thing as children often get harmed by the numerous wooden stumps and also drown in the lake. Felix explained that, he was also forced to go to the farm on days that they don't go on fishing. The farming and the fishing work get him tied a lot of the time.

All this while, Felix's grandmother in Ada was not happy that her grandson has not been put into school. She is against introducing young children to fishing and farming. According to Felix, it took the effort of his grandmother to rescue him from the fishing and farming in Akosombo when he turned 10. The grandmother then brought him to Ada to put him to school in the village. Unfortunately, the grandmother was unable to offer him the necessary support to go through school smoothly. Felix often struggled to get his school supplies until he was discovered by the team from Volta Revival Foundation. Felix thinks no child should be made to go through the experience he went through.

NAME: Ezekiel Apeyesi

AGE: 17 GRADE: 6th

Ezekiel was about four years old when his uncle forced him to work as a cow herding boy (cow-boy). His father died when he was very young, and his mother moved to Accra, leaving him to live with his grandmother in Ada. Ezekiel worked herding a large group of cattle until he was 14 years old. During that time he was fortunate to meet a teacher who realized that the boy was being forced to labor without going to school and that he is very smart. The teacher advocated for Ezekiel to the uncle, pleading that he be put into school, the uncle was not happy but after the pleading of the grandmother as well he gave in and released Ezekiel from his forced contract. Ezekiel has been in school since he was 15, and has advanced from 1st grade to 6th grade in less than 3 years. All of his teachers recommend him as the best student in their class, and he aspires to become an electrical engineer.

Recently, Ezekiel's grandmother has died, she was the one who fed him all these years and now he is working as a moto driver in order to feed himself, and this work is threatening his dream of getting a full education. Ezekiel wants more than anything to become an engineer and has told us that if anyone can sponsor him, he will do all he can to make them proud and promises to come back and help the other cowboys like him.

Our Policies

How VRF Operates Sponsorship

The Volta Revival Foundation works closely with the Bobby and Bridget Sherman Children's Foundation and the district education department, as well as the headmaster and teachers of our school. For every sponsored student, the parent /guardian must fill out a consent form and must be debriefed on the program and any incumbent expectations. It is made clear to all participants that the sponsor can, for any reason, discontinue their donations, resulting in loss of sponsorship. All students who lose sponsorship for this reason will be added back onto the website to find another sponsor.

A student will lose sponsorship if the following occurs: the student is missing from school with no explanation for more than two weeks, or if the student has not completed their homework/exams for more than one month. If a student is struggling with the coursework, the Volta Revival Foundation will set up homework tutorials and lessons for the student as is required.

How funds are distributed

The Sponsor makes automatic payments of $45 every month through PayPal which is deposited into the Volta Revival Foundation bank account. Approximately $2 of each monthly donation will be used for the PayPal fee and the international withdrawal fee. All the funds from the sponsorship are used to support the student through: needed school supplies, clothes, school fees, books, instruments, tutorials, counseling, transportation, medical examinations and appointments, meals and groceries, family aid (lighting systems, water purification ect.), family visitations, monitoring, monthly cash stipend (in certain cases), and any other needs which may arise which are essential to the success of your student.

All items bought for the student are recorded by the Volta Revival. Keeping receipts and understanding how our support funding is used is a top priority, which is why we only work with partners we know and trust. The Volta Revival Foundation is a registered organization in Ghana and is a 501(c)3 non-profit charity under U.S. law. Our annual report is sent to all sponsors in February for the prior year. A third-party auditor also produces a report annually.
